

Shhhh.... It's a secret...

Secret Shopper Patch Program Info for Girl Scout Troops

GSCI Secret Shoppers are ready to visit random cookie booths during our direct sales portion of the cookie program. Secret Shoppers are rare which makes them so special. Not every booth will be visited by a Secret Shopper.

A Secret Shopper is GSCI staff member or volunteer who wants to help Girl Scouts develop an entrepreneurial mindset and make a good impression on the community.

These shoppers reward the Girl Scouts who demonstrate knowledge of the cookie program and the Girl Scout Promise and Law with a special patch.

How it works:

- Hold a cookie booth or drive thru at stores, businesses, events, etc. Be sure to enter your cookie booth in Smart Cookies for added promotion.
- Follow and practice booth etiquette guidelines and Safety Activity Checkpoints. See the guidelines that Secret Shoppers are following to be extra prepared!

Secret Shoppers will look for:

- Booth Appearance: Customers will be drawn to a decorated booth that is neat and organized.
- Uniforms: Girls should wear their uniform or Girl Scout gear when selling Girl Scout cookies.
- Goals: Girls should display goals and/or be able to talk to customers about those goals.
- Greeting Customers: Girls should say hello and be friendly to potential customers even if they do not buy cookies.
- Thanking Customers: Girls should thank customers, even if they do not buy any cookies.
- Respectful Behavior: Girls should treat store employees, customers and the property with respect and leave the place better than they found it.
- Not Blocking Entrances: Girls should approach customers as they leave the store and never block the entrance.
- Product Knowledge: Girls should display a knowledge of the product they are selling and be prepared to answer customer questions.
